Class Ode 1947

By

GERTRUDE ANN PAUL

I

Into a troubled world we step
As we go on our own,
We strive to win and render help
As life's dark paths are shown;
Strengthen in us the power to serve
In helping those in need,
Favor the right, ignore the wrong,
To get ahead with speed.

II

When we are lost and weary
We know that God is near,
He helps all those in dire distress
So we have naught to fear;
We promise to remember Him,
To open wide our door
Until we seek our well-earned rest
On yonder golden shore.

The class of 1947 respectfully dedicates this year book to Mr. Sullivan, who as our Headmaster, teacher, and loyal friend, unceasingly gave of his time, wisdom, and understanding to guide our past and influence our future.

The "Spindle" is a mirror reflecting the tireless efforts of Miss Ryan. To Miss Ryan, the class of '47 and the "Spindle" Staff, in particular, extend sincere thanks for making our year book possible.

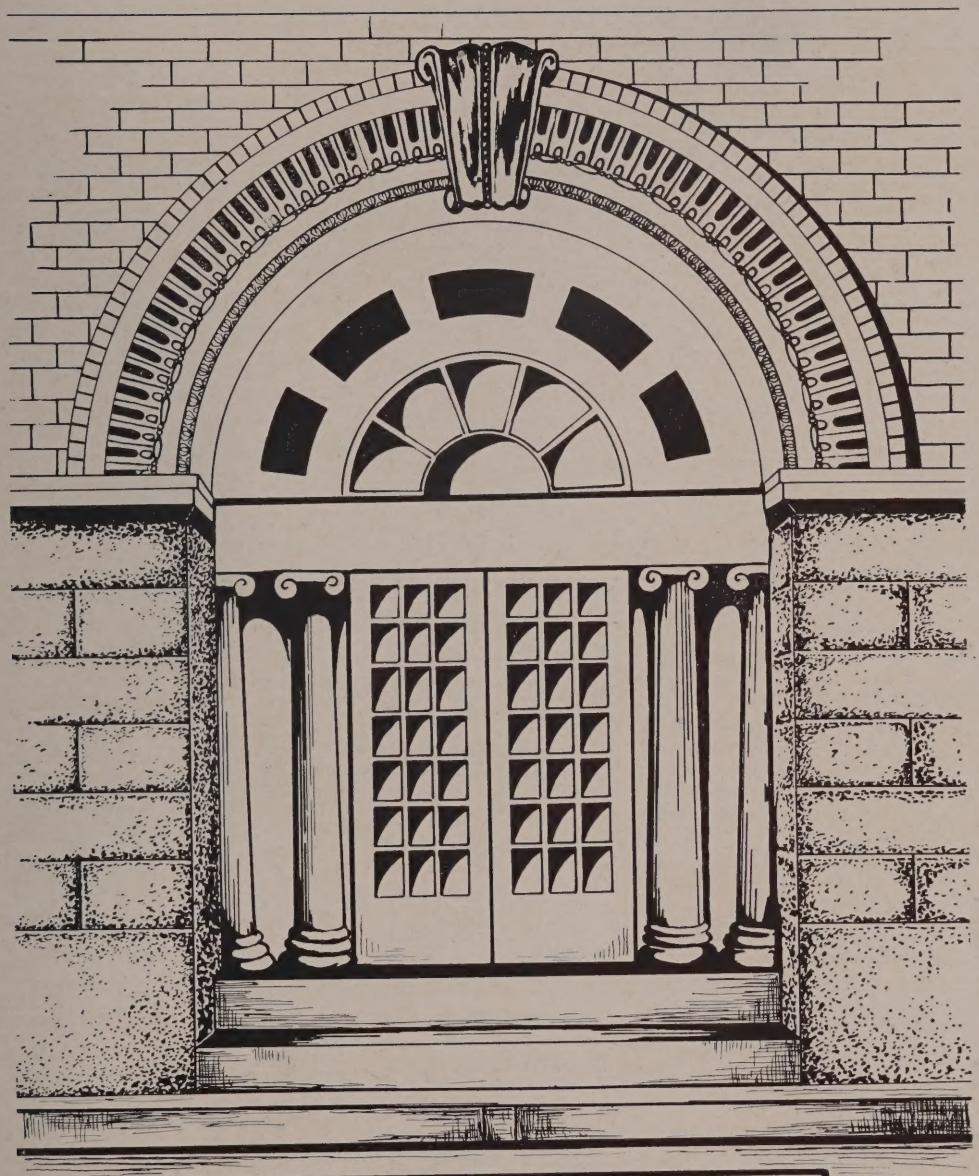
Since our first meeting in October, after the class agreed to support a year book, the staff members have been constantly at work. We thank all those who have, through their untiring efforts, made possible the realization of our hopes.

Carl Sigvardson designed and executed the monogram on page one. The other divider pages are signed by their designers.

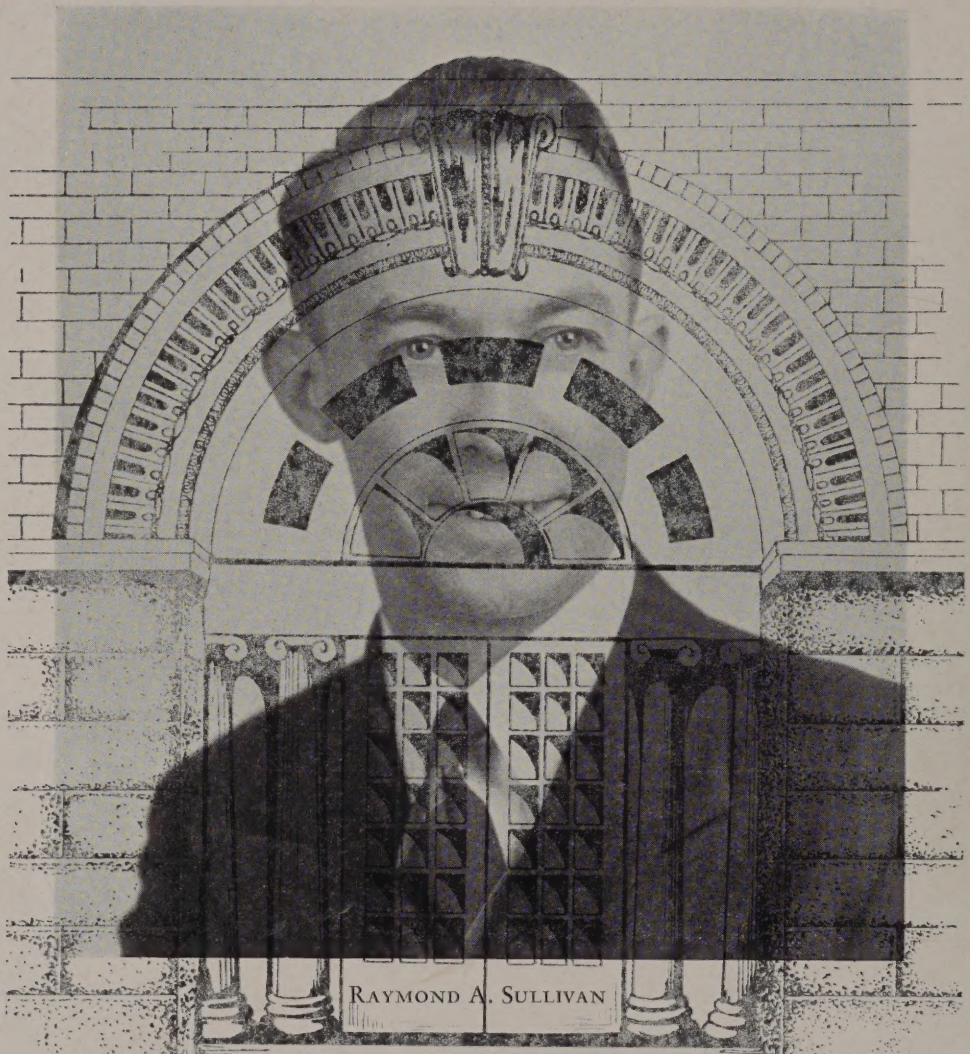
Miss Lowney and her Personnel Staff have devoted many hours to typing copy for the printer.

Sacrificing many activities for the "Spindle" of 1947, the editors have been conscientiously working to bring the year book to the students.

BUSINESS BOARD



ADMINISTRATION



I have shared the pleasure many members of your class enjoyed as they wove enviable records on the pattern of life at Lowell High School.

The class of 1947 is graduating into a world which apparently is spinning onward to a design of existence which will be new in many respects.

Your creditable efforts here have demonstrated that you can adapt yourselves successfully to many vicissitudes. With the same enthusiastic spirit, willing cooperation, and sincere purpose you have shown here, you can make a fabric of your own lives which will bring credit to you and the school which graduates you.

The Home Room Representatives met weekly and acted as a student council. They appointed the class committees for colors, motto, and the Class Ode which was written by Gertrude Paul.

The class of '47, being an extremely progressive one, introduced many novelties to the school including the student council project and music during lunch periods. The playing of records over the public address system was under the direction of Gil Stevens.

Other innovations were movies during the study periods and two very successful class socials which were held at the Rex Roof. The first of these had Ken Merrill as its chairman, while the second was under the capable direction of Don Lewis.

The Senior Prom, last event on the social calendar of the Senior Class, was held on Memorial Day, May 30 and was a huge success.

Although not losing as many members of our class to the armed forces as did those classes immediately preceding us, we lost our share to Uncle Sam. Yes, indeed the year 1947 will be one to remember.

National Honor Society

In Lowell High School, as in many other schools throughout the country, election to the National Honor Society is one of the greatest distinctions which may be conferred upon a student. Election to the Society is not based on scholarship alone; a member must also be outstanding in character, leadership, and service.

The emblem of the National Honor Society is the keystone and the flaming torch, the keystone symbolizing the high ideals of the organization, and the flaming torch symbolizing its purpose. At the base of the keystone are the letters C. S. L. S. standing for the four cardinal principles of the organization—character, scholarship, leadership and service.

Those Juniors with a grade of 90% or more, within the highest 5% of the Junior class, and those Seniors with a grade of 85% or more, within the highest 15% of the Senior class are eligible for membership. They must, however, be approved by a faculty council made up of the headmaster, submasters, and department heads. Each year a special initiation ceremony is held, in which the members pledge themselves to uphold the ideals of the society.

Since 1927 when the Lowell Chapter of the National Honor Society was first formed under the sponsorship of Miss Helen Choate, 1710 students have had the privilege of membership. Now under the guidance of Mr. Edward Sullivan, the National Honor Society continues to function as the leading society of Lowell High School.

Review

1947 marked the sixth year in which the Lowell High School Review has been printed in tabloid form. The paper in existence since 1887, was originally prepared as a magazine, but recently it was found that by printing it as a newspaper, more news could be offered to the students at a lower price.

If a student of a dozen years ago saw "The Review" today, he would not recognize the paper. Today it has changed to a modern newspaper where one may find news and interesting new features. Probably the most popular section of the paper is the gossip section, "Blah." Another new and popular feature is Profiles where pictures and articles about popular students are printed.

"The Review" is a monthly publication and is subscribed to by a large percentage of the student body.

Miss Anna M. Ryan is faculty advisor to the staff which is selected yearly from students having honor grades in English III.

Football

Lady Luck turned her back on Lowell High School's football team in 1946. The team played a stiff eleven game schedule against the most formidable opposition in Massachusetts and New Hampshire without coming up with a single win. Nevertheless, the boys proved themselves worthy sportsmen despite numerous obstacles.

On several occasions during the season Lowell came within a hair of crashing the win column. In fact for a few hours they were considered victors in one of their games, but forfeited it on a self-admitted technicality. Then, too, they were defeated by an unbeaten Keith Academy eleven by only two points, while holding the edge in game statistics.

C. Herbert Cochrane coached the team for about half of the season when he was succeeded by two ex-grid stars—Fritz Drescher and Joseph Polak, who led the team through the rest of the year.

Halfback Mike Demauro and tackle Art Mercier co-captained the ill-fated team.

The team was green, the opposition difficult; but what the boys lacked in skill and knowledge they made up in sportsmanship.

Basketball

Under the very able guidance of Coach Tony Archinski, the L.H.S. basketball team took third place in the Greater-Boston League while hanging up a record of nine victories and ten defeats. The team did amazingly well considering the green material and lack of a proper playing court.

Captain-elect John Ginalski, who will lead the 1948 team, and Al Lenzi each scored over one hundred points for the varsity team. Nick Macaronis, Captain John Salesky, and Chris Dokas were also high scorers.

A pleasant surprise this year was Coach Al Mangan's Junior-Varsity squad which played the entire season without suffering a defeat. On this team there were three boys, Pete Kalergeropoulos, Sammy Goodzoosian, and Al Gouveia, who scored over a hundred points each. Torsy Kouchalakos and Art Fournier each scored over half that number.

The team won the city championship by defeating Keith Academy in both the games they played.

Track

Again the Lowell High School Track team had a successful year under the supervision of coach George Haggerty. During the course of the regular season, the red and gray boys met opposition from Malden, Medford, Newton, and Lawrence.

Captain Len Patrick was the year's high scorer. Tom Breen and George Tzanatakos were also mainstays on the squad.

In the Northeastern Interscholastic Track Meet this year the Lowell team was unable to retain the cup which last year's team won.

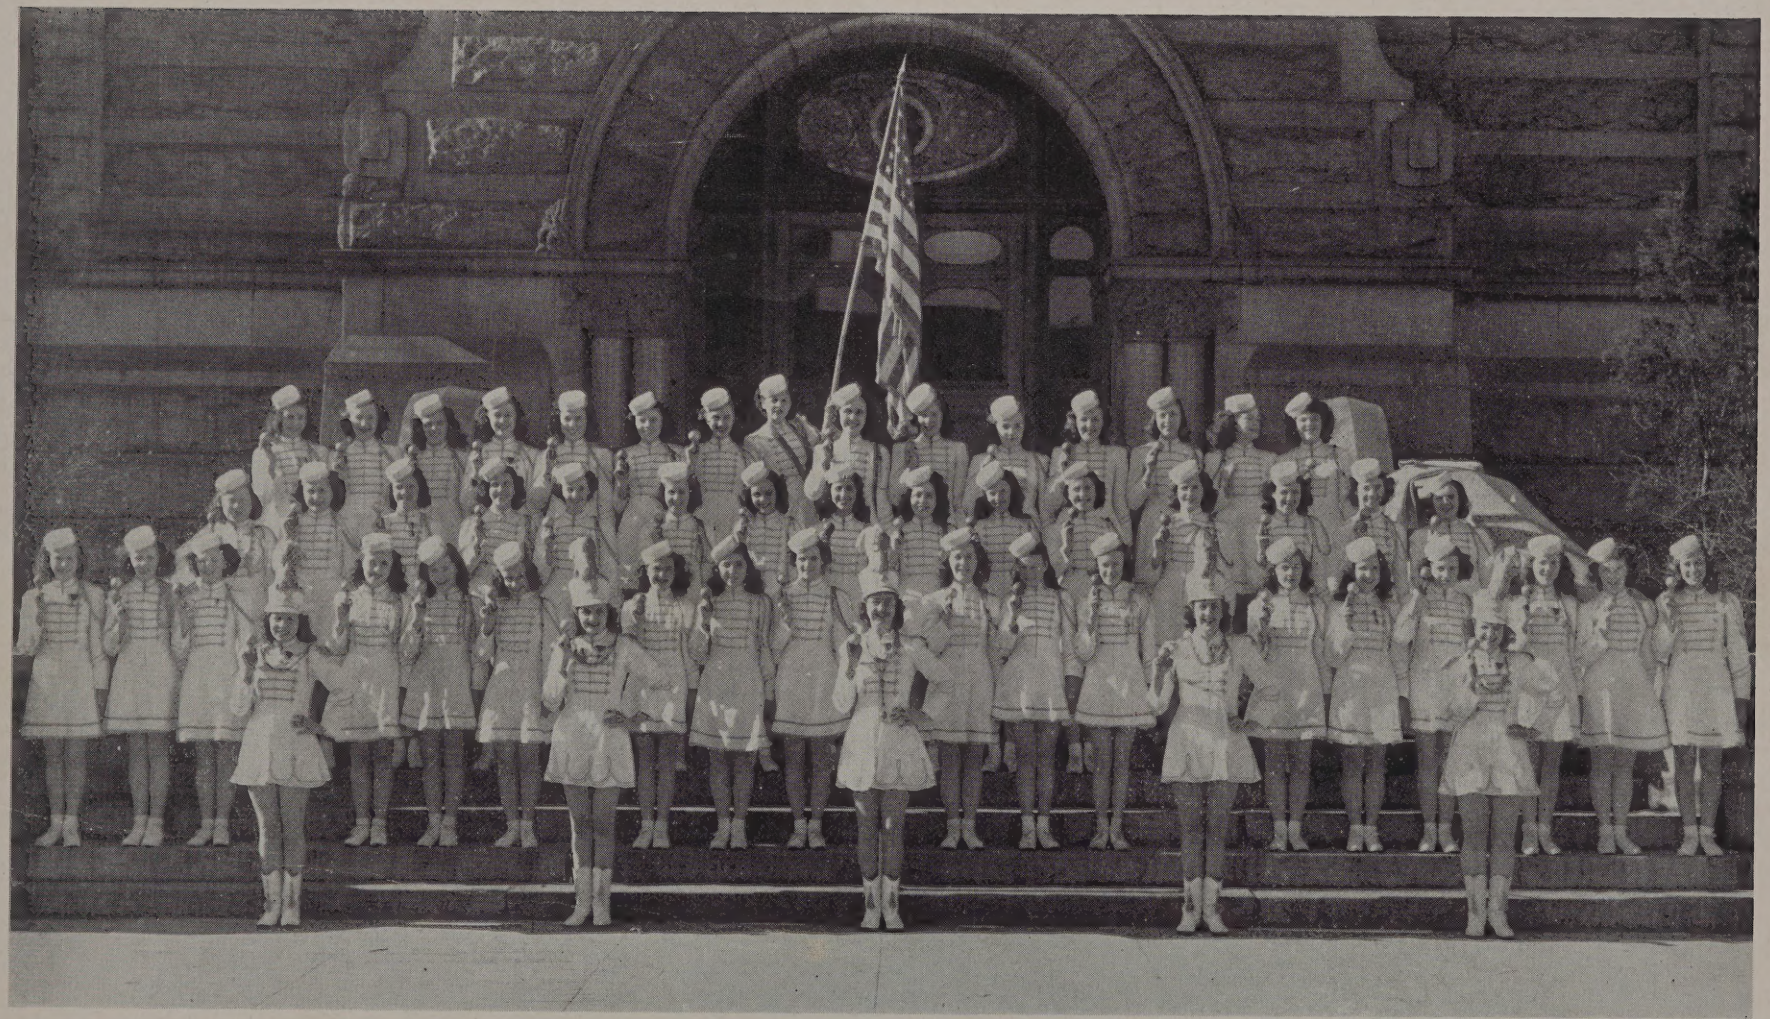
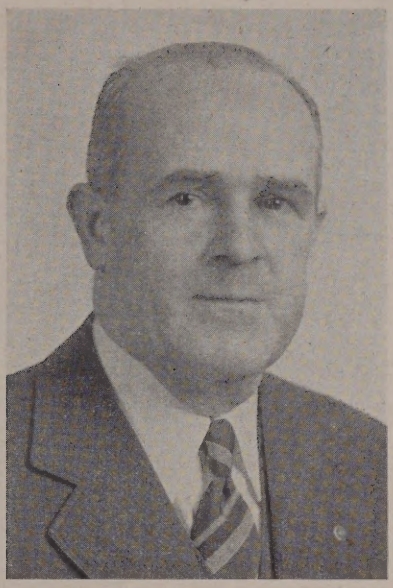
When baseball coach, Stanley Stoklosa, called out the candidates for his first practice session, he was overwhelmed and overjoyed to find that the turnout in the history of the school was on hand. Besides a dozen veterans there were five score new would-be baseball stars working out for their chosen positions.

This year, as in the past, Lowell High played in the Greater-Boston Schoolboy Baseball League, the winner of which is considered state champion.



BATON TWIRLERS



WILFRID T. BOULGER

Baton Twirlers

Twelve years ago, in the fall of 1935, thirty girls and a leader were chosen and trained by Wilfrid T. Boulger to demonstrate their baton twirling ability at the Lowell High School's annual Thanksgiving Football game.

Since then they have appeared at every football game, performing drills, solo, and precision twirling. Nearby states, Connecticut, Maine, and New Hampshire, having seen the girls perform, have invited them to put on exhibitions. Before World War II, these girls, who spend so many hours perfecting their twirling, appeared in the State Music Festival and the New England Music Festival. Lowell's surrounding towns call on the troupe to perform at their granges and other town meetings. They appear in almost all shows in Lowell.

In the year 1942, in order to encourage pupils to develop their twirling abilities, there was a championship contest. Mr. Boulger awarded gold and silver medals to the winners. Every year since then medals have been presented to the winners in the Cyrus Irish Auditorium during the second half of the school year.

Anyone who has ever seen the twirlers perform realize they deserve credit for being so generous with their time in helping out all charitable organizations and hospitals.

GIRL OFFICERS

BAWITA LAWLER

The Girl Officers' Association

On Tuesdays, the whole regiment wear their uniforms. A meeting is held at which Miss Lawler outlines plans for the coming week and talks on other business matters. A special training class is held after school, in which the officers learn the routines for the classes to which they are assigned.

The uniforms this year are French blue serge with gold chevrons to indicate rank. Except in color, the uniforms have not changed in style during the history of the organization. The uniform is a sign of achievement, and all the officers are proud to wear it.

The girls are urged to obtain a high scholastic rating, and to avoid being involved in violations of school regulations. Besides serving in the Physical Education classes at school, the officers aid many organizations, by offering their services as ushers, checkers and many other positions. By their leadership they acquire poise and confidence. Every officer in the regiment tries to live up to the standards set by her predecessors.

Approximately fifty years ago, the Girl Officers Association was formed. The Organization was a battalion which consisted of a very small group of chosen girls, selected because of their academic standing. As the years passed, the number grew to the present top of seventy-two.

Personality and leadership were included in the requirements, and since the officers performed duties in the Physical Education Department, physical ability was also taken into consideration. The girls are qualified by examinations by their Physical Education instructors, who mark the girls in posture, marching, exercises, voice, clubs, and dance. This grade has been counting as one-fourth of the total mark. The marks of three expert out-of-town judges count three-fourths of the mark. These marks are averaged, and the highest seventy-two girls are commissioned in the regiment. The test takes place at the end of the girls' Junior year. At the beginning of the Senior year, the officers are assigned to classes where they serve as leaders under the direction of their Physical Education instructors.

About the year 1924, the Personnel Department was established in the Lowell High School.

Students taking commercial courses train during their Sophomore, Junior, and Senior years to acquire experience and a knowledge of office procedure.

When a student has completed a year of specialized training in this department, he is ready to take a place in the business world with a sense of integrity and business courtesy.

This year eighteen Seniors, chosen for their outstanding work in the Junior year, are serving on the Staff, with Joan P. Kelley as Personnel Manager.

Miss Annabelle C. Lowney, who is also head of the Shorthand and Typewriting Department, is the Faculty Advisor for the Staff.

Helen Chadwick, Mr. Emmett Harris, William Finch, Shirley Martel

Room 100

During our high school years we have had many occasions to be thankful to Mr. Harris and his staff who have ably directed room 100. They have sold tickets for the school activities, held lost articles and managed finances. We have been dependent on Mr. Harris and student assistants for these and other innumerable services.

German Club

The officers, members, and faculty advisor all worked hard together to make this year's German Club better than it has been in previous years.

For the first time in the history of the German Club a Recreation Committee was formed. The committee, which took great care in planning the social events of the club, was composed of John Blaha, chairman; Aubrey Clark, Virginia Davis, and James Floyd as assistants.

The first event on the social calendar was in the form of a Harvest Dance.

Talks by Miss Masterson, faculty advisor, and Girard Miller, veteran of World War II, soon followed.

Later in the year, the club successfully conducted a clothing drive for needy school children in West Virginia.

The German Club gift to the school was a subscription to a well-known German-American magazine, the Jugend Post.

The purpose of the club is to teach the students more about the German people, their culture, and literature. It has proved to be one of the outstanding Clubs since its founding in 1940.

For the past twenty-six years, students of Spanish and those interested in Latin American and its customs have found amusement and education in the Lowell High School Spanish Club.

The club, the second oldest in the school, bases its program of activities on what would interest these people. This includes speakers from Central and South America, Spanish games, plays presented in Spanish, and even a Spanish luncheon.

Mr. Edward B. Cornell, head of the Spanish department, is faculty advisor to the organization and the officers are elected from among the members.

This year perhaps the two most important and most enjoyable activities were the annual luncheon and a dance held in conjunction with the German Club. Served at the luncheon is typical Spanish food such as tamales, chili con carne, Spanish pastries and cookies.

JOHN J. GIBLIN

The Band

Our band was founded on January 1, 1923, with the New Year's resolution to make Lowell High School proud of her new organization. Under the capable direction of Mr. John J. Giblin from its birth to the present time, the band has won sectional and national honors and has always been the envy of all the surrounding cities.

The band was invited by John Philip Sousa to play with his musicians in 1924. It participated, in 1926, in a national music tournament in Fostoria, Ohio. To get funds to make this trip, the band boys themselves, raised $4,300. At the end of the trip the band returned with eight cents to spare.

Those were the days when the band made headlines and held concerts. One of the headlines in 1927 read "L.H.S. band wins First Prize, Class A, in N. E. Tournament." Headlines such as that predominated throughout the years. Mr. Giblin has treasured in his scrapbook a certificate awarded by the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music to the band designating it as a first prize winner of class A in Gloucester in 1937.

We know of the fine work the band has done at football games, civic functions, and on our annual Field Day.

The students of Lowell High School of today can look into the future and see with pride a band which will always bring credit to Lowell High School.

6TH ROW: Robert Huntley, Roger Roderigues, John Garland.

Standing: Jeanne Frisselle, Michael Savas, Patsy Quinn, Genevieve Gawlick, Miss O'Brien, George Sorota, Frances McCutcheon, Glenice Hiley, Jack McGrail, Janet Sykes.

Special Chorus

Formed in 1935, the Special Chorus is made up of a selected group of sixty voices. Both Seniors and Juniors are in the talented group. Under the capable direction of Miss Gertrude O'Brien, the chorus presents musical programs of classical and sacred selections for the school assemblies.

Entertaining at outside social functions, the students have brought more fame to the now very popular chorus.

Practicing each Tuesday afternoon, the members finished the school year by attending the State Music Festival. In competition with class A choruses all over the state, the special chorus proved again their ability to be among the best choruses of the state.

Orchestra

A little over twenty-five years ago the Lowell High School Orchestra made its first public appearance under the direction of the founder, Mr. Frederick O. Blunt. Since that time the orchestra has grown and flourished so that there are now some thirty members with basses, accordions, clarinets, and horns added.

The orchestra proved itself an asset to Lowell High by its various appearances at the high school show, play, assemblies, and public gatherings. Miss Gertrude F. O'Brien, the present director of the orchestra, encourages all pupils who play musical instruments to join. Each member receives one credit toward a diploma. Rehearsals are held every Wednesday afternoon in the High School auditorium. Many former members have derived excellent experience and have gone on to achieve success in musical careers.

The boys and girls of the orchestra make an unselfish contribution toward the development of music in Lowell High School. Miss O'Brien's untiring effort in working with the orchestra will continue to produce orchestras as fine as the 1947 organization.

The Veterans

The organization and supervision of what are now known as "Veterans' Classes" was the tremendous task placed in the capable hands of Mr. Dana Palmer, last year. Of its being one of the finest of such programs in the country, there is no doubt.

During the past school year, there have been 233 veterans enrolled, of which five per cent were married; every other student was working; and three out of four have been accepted into the various Colleges and Universities of New England.

The more popular of these establishments, determined by the number of applications, have been Northeastern U., Suffolk U., Tufts College, Lowell Textile Institute, Boston College, and Boston University.

The success of any such program could not have been realized without the perseverance and understanding of our teachers. Therefore, we, the veterans, would like to extend our sincere gratitude for the persistent efforts of Mr. Regan, Mr. Hetherman, Mr. Dwyer, Mr. Murphy, Mr. Gatzimos, and Mr. Leblanc, as well as Mr. Palmer and our Principal, Mr. Sullivan.

Stephen Panagiatopoulos, David Dobson, Roger Girard and John Boyle.

Greenhalge Debating Society

1ST ROW: Priscilla Trask, Charlotte Hince, Elizabeth Sherburne, Frank O'Brien, Elizabeth Michaels, Mr. Francis D. Reardon, Irene Rosenbaum, Maureen Sullivan, James Barrett, Alice Leventhall, Paula Levin.

2ND ROW: John McHale, Donald Dowd, Charles Sharkey, William Vlahakis, David A. Rock, Ernest Coulouras, James Burke, Patricia Liston, Laura Silva, Zelda Sorota, Estelle Lieberman, Rita Guerrette.

Established in 1856 for the extension of debating throughout Lowell High School, the Frederick T. Greenhalge Debating Society has long been known throughout New England as one of the finest organizations of its kind. The society is affiliated with the National Forensic League so that anyone who has earned sufficient forensic points is allowed to become a member of the national league. Not only students of debate and those interested in debate, but anyone interested in any type of speech activity is eligible to join the society.

Mr. Francis D. Reardon, head of the English department and teacher of debate, is faculty advisor and coach of the school debating team. The school team this year entered the New England Debating Tournament at Portland, Maine, and the state tournament, debating the national high school subject, "Resolved, that the federal government should provide a complete system of medical care available to all citizens at public expense."

Each year the organization, through Judge Greenhalge, son of the founder, awards gold pins to worthy debators.

"To create, maintain, and establish throughout the school community, high standards of Christian character," this is the pledge of all Hi-Y members over the country, and the aim of the Lowell Hi-Y club is to fulfill this pledge. Fashioned after a men's service club, but modified to meet the needs of a high school student, the club is exclusively for L.H.S. boys.

The boys in the Lowell club meet once weekly to dine and listen to interesting, educational speakers. There are also many social events carried on by the boys.

The most important regular weekly meeting was the annual teacher-member supper when each boy invited a member of the faculty to be his guest at the meeting.

Highlight on the social calendar was the spring country-club formal held as a joint affair with the Y-teens.

Faculty advisors for the organization are Stanley J. Stocklosa and Paul V. MacLaughlin.

Science Club

The school year 1946-47 found the Science Club with its largest enrollment. Because of its informative and interesting programs, the club has enlarged from a small number of students to a group of over fifty interested scientific members.

Under the supervision of Mr. James Conway, the students visited Lowell Textile Institute on their first trip. Dr. Paul Panagiatakos guided the club and explained to them the many different courses offered at the institute.

On succeeding tours, they visited a local newspaper. Shown through the composing, proof, and stereotype rooms, students saw a complete newspaper in the making.

The Harvard Brewery offered the group another opportunity to see a different sort of industry. At the plant the club members were shown the many processes which go into the making of beer.

At one of the regular Friday meetings, sophomore Dick Hall gave the students a lecture on the atomic bomb. Slides were also shown to complete one of the most interesting meetings the group held.

Their major social event was a Christmas party held in room 319.

Y-TEENS

2ND ROW: Elaine Adams, Eleanor Rourke, Elizabeth Koutras, Mary Martin, Janet Burns, Nancy Gilbride, Elizabeth Blazon, JoAnn Noonan, Doris Curtin Wilhelmina O'Neil.

The Tri-Hi Clubs of the Y.W.C.A. have this year, assumed the new national name the Y-Teens.

The year began with the annual Y-Teen Rally of all the clubs in October. After that the clubs immediately became activated and held their weekly meetings.

This year has been extremely successful in phases other than entertainment. A club has been organized under the expert direction of Mrs. George Drew for the Lowell High School Freshmen.

Inter-Club Council which consists of the officers of the clubs planned a Spring Formal for the entire group. This was a climax to the dances, parties, speakers and other activities of the year.

All high school girls are eligible to join the Y-Teens which is established for the benefit of these girls.

Switchboard Operators

For the past twenty-five years student operators have run the switchboard.

Since there are two girls on each period, one is free to do errands, typing, and filing for the main office.

These girls are selected at the end of their junior year for their ability in handling the board and voice personality.

Miss Annabelle C. Lowney, head of the Stenography and Typewriting Departments, is the faculty advisor.

1ST ROW: Alice McInerney, Shirley Clark, Evelyn Betses, Angelike Tzanakos, Rita Grant, Pauline Turcotte, Amelia Sousa, Shirley Francis, Mary Cusick.

Book Room

During four periods of the day, room 107, which is better known as the Book Room, is open for the convenience of the English teachers at Lowell High School. Work for the two girls in the Book Room each period is similar to that of a librarian, except that it is on a larger scale, as some teachers take out or return as many as seventy-five books at one time. Every six weeks the girls are busiest, because it is then, when class schedules change, that most of the ninety English classes exchange books which are on the required reading list. A record of each book that is taken out or returned must be kept in the files.

Throughout the year these girls quietly carry on their responsible job in an obscure room in the old building, but they are appreciated. Mr. Reardon, and the teachers of his English Department realize how necessary and efficient this faithful group is to the smooth management of the school.

1ST ROW: Jeanne Frisselle, Madeline Flickner, Ruth Frawley.
